Empathy Map Canvas:

An empathy map is a simple, easy-to-digest visual that captures knowledge about your student and library staff users' behaviours and attitudes.

It is a useful tool to help development teams better understand their users' interactions with the digital request platform.

Creating an effective automation solution requires understanding the true validation problems and the specific campus community members who are experiencing them. The exercise of creating this map helps team participants consider things entirely from the user's perspective, highlighting their exact tracking goals and script-related challenges.
